PLAIN TALKS ABOUT STREETS

COMMITTEE ON STREETS AND ALLEYS TELLS COUNCIL CONDITIONS FOUND ON CITY'S ROADWAYS.

LITTLE BUSINESS WAS DONE

There was little real business before the city council at the regular meeting Tuesday night but there was plenty of talk and the talk had a direct bearing on the city's affairs. It developed during the session that the Committee on Streets and Alleys, composed of Councilman Bittles and Councilman Leuteke, had been very busy the past month making an actual examination of the streets and alleys of the city. The result of this examination will be some active work on the part of the council.

Chairman Bittles stated that our streets are continually being injured and destroyed by the actions of private citizens. When a man digs up the street to place a drain, or for any other purpose he does not replace it in as good condition as it was before. He simply fills the trench made. There is no attempt to place the stone and stone dust on the top where they were before. Usually a ridge is left which soon becomes a hollow, or continuing as a ridge, diverts the water from the gutters into the streets, causing them to wash. Walnut street was cited as an example. It was pointed out that when the streets were dug up a bond was filed, and the council proposes to make use of this bond. The streets injured by private citizens must be repaired or the city will sue on the bond.

It was further held that it was not the city's business to notify the citizen that his street was in need of repair, but to do the work and collect for the bond.

Further the gas company and the water works company have signified their intentions of repairing the streets where injury has been done by the laying of gas or water pipe, and men are now at work hauling stone for such repairs.

A petition was filed by Ed Gardner asking that a woodshed upon a lot adjoining his residence property on Apple street be condemned. The petition alleged that the building was "ramshackle" and in bad repair and was an injury to his property. He asked that the owner be ordered to move the building to the back of the yard.

The Washington street improvements which were to be considered were not taken up. The following claim ordinance was passed:

COFFMAN WOMAN SENT TO JAIL

JUDGE PRICHARD OF THE MARION COUNTY CRIMINAL COURT WITHHOLDS DECISION IN TRIAL TUESDAY.

WAS CHARGED WITH THEFT

Lulu Belle Coffman, of Bainbridge, tried in the Marion County Criminal Court Tuesday on the charge of robbery was sent to jail by Judge Prichard of that court pending the rendering of his verdict in the case.

The woman was indicted by the Grand Jury on the charge of stealing a watch and a sum of money from a railroad man. In the trial Tuesday there was little evidence of the woman's guilt but the judge stated he desired to investigate the case further before rendering a verdict and the woman was sent to jail. W. H. H. Cullen was in Indianapolis to represent the woman.

JIM COVERDALE IS RELEASED

WINFIELD PATTERSON DECIDES HE WILL NOT PROSECUTE MAN WHO SHOT HIM IN THE SHOULDER.

ACT WAS WITHIN LAW

Jim Coverdale, a halfwitted old man, who was arrested Sunday night, following trouble in which he shot Winfield Patterson, the Republican candidate for constable in the right shoulder, was released from jail today and it is probable that he will not be prosecuted for his act.

Coverdale was released when it was learned that Patterson's wound is not a dangerous one. It is also intimated that Patterson was not anxious to appear as a witness against Coverdale for fear of legal action which would implicate himself and the friends who were with him on the night of the shooting.

It is said that there had been much drinking in south Greencastle on Sunday afternoon and evening and at the time of the trouble several men were causing disturbance in Keightleytown. Coverdale says he was awakened by a disturbance made by several men at the house next to his and says he heard one of the men say, "Let's go get old man Coverdale and beat him to death."

When the men started toward his house, he says, he warned them to stay back and when continued to advance he shot. He did not know who was in the crowd and did not know who he shot.

It is said today that although Patterson's wound is painful it is not dangerous and that he soon will be able to be up and around. All of the shot, it is believed, lodged in the heavy muscle of the man's shoulder.

SLACK SPEAKS AT CLOVERDALE

GOOD SIZED CROWD HEARS FORMER STATE SENATOR IN SPITE OF RIVAL ATTRACTION AT GREENCASTLE.

SCORES PROTECTIVE POLICY

L. Ert Slack, formerly state senator and also a candidate for the nomination for governor on the Democratic ticket two years ago, spoke to a large audience in the opera house at Cloverdale last night. It was unfortunate that the Cloverdale date fell upon the same night as the Marshall speaking at Greencastle, but in spite of this fact the house was well filled.

Mr. Slack is an able and eloquent speaker and the interest never flagged from start to last. He paid his respects to the tariff and the Republican attitude toward protection, and made a strong plea for the election of Kern and the Congressional ticket. He urged the election of the legislative ticket because the state needed Democratic government and Kern needed the Democratic votes.

Tomorrow, (Tuesday, Oct 25) at 9 o'clock seats can be reserved at Sayers' Book store for the Putnam County Fair.

HOW TO VOTE FOR KERN
If you desire to vote for John W. Kern for United States Senator, vote for the Democratic candidates for the Legislature, which will be found on your county ballot. These men if elected, will vote for Mr. Kern in the Legislature. Mr. Kern's name will NOT appear on the BALLOT.
The existing laws provide that United States Senators shall be elected by the Legislature. If this body is Democratic, it will elect Mr. Kern. You can cast a vote for him only by voting for the Legislature candidates in your own county.
Find out who they are and vote for them if you are for Kern.

SECRET WEDDING BECOMES KNOWN

KIMBER GARDNER AND MISS FLORENCE MEIKEL, OF INDIANAPOLIS, MARRIED IN KENTUCKY ON OCT. 15.

GROOM NOW IN OKLAHOMA

Announcement was made Wednesday of the marriage of Kimber Gardner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Gardner, and Miss Florence Meikel, of Indianapolis. The marriage occurred in a small town in Kentucky on Oct. 15. The bride and groom had intended keeping the marriage secret until Christmas but the secret leaked out to day.

Mr. Gardner told his parents that he was going to Danville to play football on the 15th but instead of going to Danville he went to Indianapolis where met Miss Meikel and they went to Kentucky and were married.

The bride met Mr. Gardner while in Greencastle for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. William Grogan. At present she is visiting Phil Meikel here in Greencastle. She later will join her husband, who left Monday for Oklahoma.

A special feature of the County Fair is the Teddy Bear chorus by fifty little girls.

A GREAT CROWD HEARS MARSHALL

OPERA HOUSE FILLED TO CAPACITY TUESDAY NIGHT WHEN GOVERNOR DISCUSSED POLITICAL ISSUES.

PLAYS ROOSEVELT POLICIES

Before a crowd of more than 1000, Governor Marshall denounced the Trusts, grilled Theodore Roosevelt upon the griddle of New Nationalism, condemned the Payne-Aldrich Tariff Bill and pleaded for the election of John W. Kern to the United States Senate in the Opera House last night.

Governor Marshall and his Private Secretary, Mark Thistlewait, together with the Indianapolis newspaper men, arrived here at 6:45 on the Terre Haute, Indianapolis & Eastern Traction line. They were met at the station by Col. C. C. Matson, who was the host at a dinner for the visitors at the College Inn.

At 7 o'clock, the Bainbridge Band began a concert on the square, later going to the stage of the Opera House. It was just 7:30 o'clock when Alec Lane, County Chairman, arrived at the hall in his machine with the Governor and his party. By this time the opera house was filled. Many chairs had been placed in the hall to accommodate the great crowd and every inch of available standing room was occupied. It is estimated that more than 200 were unable to get into the hall to hear the speech.

A number of the old Democrats, who occupied seats of honor upon the platform were Arch Allen, age 75, who came down from Bainbridge to hear the Governor's address—Mr. Allen boasts that he has never missed a "Good Old Democratic" meeting and says he never will as long as he is able to get about. Elijah Grantham, age 74, Uriah Gasaway, age 87, C. O. Talbot, age 64 and G. W. Dalby, who is 81, also, were there to applaud the Governor and these old men were as vigorous in their applause as any in the hall.

The entrance of the Governor was a signal for a great ovation and the applause lasted for several minutes. Col. C. C. Matson, chairman of the meeting introduced the Governor to the people. In his brief remarks he praised the Governor for his administration, saying that in Governor Marshall Indiana Democracy had found an unchallenged and acknowledged leader—a man sincere, truthful, capable and conscientious. And should the Democrats of this great country nominate him as their candidate for President at its next National Convention and should he be elected to fill that great office, the people would have a captain who would stick to his job and give the country a wise and constitutional administration.

In the beginning of his talk the Governor stated that he was not here to abuse or condemn any person or any party "It is the principles which I shall discuss," he said. The Governor took time to praise DePauw University stating that the moral and intellectual influence of the many who had attended the school had not only raised the standard of morals of Greencastle, but of the whole state of Indiana.

Taking as his text the plank from the Republican Platform, which praises the administrative record of Theodore Roosevelt and bringing out the fact that the platform recommended that the party in Indiana follow in the footsteps of the ex-president, the governor gave the Roosevelt policies a grilling. "The people are asked to follow Theodore Roosevelt," he said—"a man who had termed Judge Anderson of Indiana a 'secondhand and a jack ass' because the judge had ruled that the proprietors of the Indianapolis News should not be compelled to go to Washington to stand trial for an alleged offense, committed in Indiana—the offense being a criticism of President Roosevelt's administration actions in the Panama Canal deal, which resulted in scandal."

"New Nationalism" came in, too, for its share of the Governor's condemnation. The Governor in referring to Mr. Roosevelt's policies said that his own policy as Governor had been to look after his own job and let the people attend to theirs, which suggested that Mr. Roosevelt's policies were not in accord with his own.

Senator Beveridge was not allowed to pass unheeded by the Governor in his speech. The Senator has found a new text according to Mr. Marshall, Abe Lincoln now taking the place of "Mary of the Vine-clad Cottage." The Governor admitted that Mr. Beveridge has selected a good text but wonders why he did not discover it 12 years ago "just as he was getting into power—not just as he is getting out."

The Senator's Child Labor Bill also was mentioned. The bill the Governor said had been in Committee in Washington for three years and at its present rate of advancement probably would not become a law until the youngest child at the meeting had whiskers which reached to his feet. And beside, the Governor said, what is the need for a child labor law. What causes the working man to force his child to work. It is because the laboring man today cannot earn enough to support his family. In order to live every member of the family must work and now Senator Beveridge would have a law which would cause the father to be sentenced to jail because he allows his child to assist in keeping the wolf from the door. There would be no need of child labor law if the tariff laws were right, said the Governor. Make the working man's dollar worth a dollar and he can earn enough to send his children to school and also support his family.

The Governor said that the newspapers are publishing a cartoon picturing a fat hog and a Democrat and asking how a Democrat can look a hog in the face. A few years ago, he said, they were wondering how a Democrat could look a sheep in the face and now the Democrats can look a whole flock in the face and not bat an eye. "I can look a hog in the face and call his brother," said Mr. Marshall. "No Republican can truthfully say that the tariff has anything to do with the price of hogs—no it is the supply and demand which govern the price the farmer receives. Nothing more. But when this same farmer goes to buy some bacon, the hog which brought him $9 a hundred, costs him $30 a hundred. The Governor suggested that if the price of bacon continued to increase he would have to resort to taking his in capsule form.

Local Option was mentioned only once and then briefly. The fact that the Republicans omitted the mention of the matter from its platform the Governor said, indicated that the party was making a "wet in wet" and "dry in dry" campaign. Give us a Democratic Legislature next time, said the Governor, and it will be the Democrats who will twist the Tigers tail.

Dr. Hawkins went to Indianapolis this morning on business.

CLAY COUNTY IS HOPELESS

TERRE HAUTE POSTMASTER SAID TO HAVE TOLD BEVERIDGE SO AND HE SHORTENS BRAZIL SPEECH.

NOT NEAR GREENCASTLE

The reason why Senator Beveridge has not been billed in Greencastle now becomes plain. He is not speaking in hopeless territory. This is proved by the following from the Brazil News:

The Republican campaign managers are considerably worked up over the efforts of the Republicans of Terre Haute to steal their date for Senator Beveridge. Senator Beveridge is scheduled to speak in this city at the Sourwine Theater on next Friday evening at 8:30 o'clock, but Terre Haute is also advertising that Beveridge is to speak in that city at the same time Friday evening and the question now is which date will Beveridge fill.

Gene Holliday, who is in charge of the Republican county headquarters in this city, when asked concerning the middle this morning, stated that Beveridge would speak in this city Friday evening, but that his stay in Brazil would be a short one and that he would then take a special car for Terre Haute, where he will again speak. Mr. Holliday said that Terre Haute had made such a row to have Beveridge speak at that place Friday evening that the evening date in this city was split up and that Beveridge will make a short speech here and will then go to Terre Haute.

It is understood that former Postmaster Gray, of Terre Haute, went to Indianapolis and told the speakers' bureau of the Republican state committee that they must have Beveridge there Friday evening instead of in the afternoon, as they would not get out a crowd for an afternoon meeting.

It is also claimed that Gray told the state committee that Clay county was hopelessly Democratic and that there were no use sending Beveridge into this county as no good could be accomplished and it would be just wasting a speech. However, as the speakers' bureau had already scheduled Beveridge for a speech in this city and all arrangements had been made the committee refused to abandon the Beveridge meeting in this city altogether, but agreed to split the date and send Beveridge to Terre Haute after a short talk in this city.

Col. C. C. Matson left at noon today for Chicago where he will visit his daughter, Mrs. Charles Walter Brown for a few days.

stands for. Even the Martinsville Reporter will discover this fact some day.

Col Roosevelt is getting in bad with most of the United States. In addition to insulting Judge Anderson of the federal court in Indiana, the Colonel has now been caught in uttering bare faced falsehoods with regard to the legal standing of the Democratic candidate for governor of Connecticut. It would not be noted in the actions of some men that they did not speak truth of a candidate from an opposed party. It is not supposed, however, that a man whose chief cry is honesty and who once posed as the exponent of the "square deal" would shatter both truth and reputation by such acts.

Obituary.

David Martin Kennedy was born Oct. 20th, 1871, and departed from this life Oct. 12th, 1910, aged 38 years, 11 months and 22 days. Deceased was the fifth child of James and Sarah Kennedy. He was married Nov. 7th 1896 to Anna L. Schwemmer. To this union were born four children, John M., Peachie P., Frances M., and Louis, all of whom with their dear mother survive to mourn his untimely death. Besides these he leaves three sisters, Mary E., wife of E. M. Rife, of Indianapolis; Armie E., wife of G. W. Aker, of Reelsville; and Eliza J., wife of Carl Harrison, of Indianapolis; and two brothers John B., of Quincy and Silas F., of near Cunnott; father, mother and one sister have preceded him into that Celestial City where parting shall be no more.

Mr. Kennedy was a man who will be greatly missed for to know him was to love him. His life was honorable and upright always ready and willing to lend a helping hand to those in need. He was an ideal husband and father and his paternal example will always be a beacon light in the pathway of his children. He is gone and we are left to mourn his loss, but our loss is his eternal gain.

CHILD CULTURE.

"De odder day" remarked Mirandy, "Sis Alvry what is one of dese head progressive ladies what has done got lost, an' don't know what she is, headed for, dropped around to my house to make a little visitation, an' she says—

"Sis Mirandy was you a-readin' in de paper de odder day about dat rich what ain't allowed to play wid no toys, nor tetch nothin' dat ain't been tested for germs, an' dat has a doctor to use a spy glass on his little innards ev'ry time hit eats, to see dat his digestion is in good waddin' order?"

"De po' little brat," 'scalds I, "What's de matter wid dat Society for de Prevention of Cruelty to Children, from gittin' hold of dem ornamental parents, dat's a-pusscuttin' dere own flesh and blood, an' haul 'em up before de court?"

"You don't understand, Sis Mirandy," says Sis Alvry, wid one of dem superior smiles at makes you want to take de stove lifter or de dust thing handy to de smiler, you don't understand. Dat's one of dem sterile babies what has got all de advantages of bein' raised accordin' to de doctrine of Scientific Child Culture."

"De cat's foot!" 'scalds I, "You don't say so! What's Scientific Child Culture?"

"Hit's a-raisin' a child accordin' to de book," says Sis Alvry.

"Huh!" 'scalds I "dere ain't but one rule for raisin' a child, an' dat's dis—kiss 'em when dey's good, spank 'em when dey's bad, wash 'em when dey gets too dirty, an' let 'em alone de balance of de time. Follow dat recipe an' you can't fail."

"Dat way of raisin' up a child might have done in de past," spones Sis Alvry.

"Well, dey raised up some pretty lakly men an' women den," spones I. "I'll be satisfied if my Thomas Jefferson Abram Lincoln turns out lak dem he was named for."

"Sis Mirandy," says Sis Alvry "hit's a pity dat you don't keep up wid de modern thought, an' dat you fails to recognize yo' obligations to yo' chillen, an' what a great problem a child is."

"De only problem dat bothers me," spones I, "is how to git enough po'k chops to fill 'em up, an' enought clothes to cover 'em."

"Dat's de way you go," moans Sis Alvry, "widout no thought of whod der you is a-givin' yo' chillen sterilized food or breakin' dere proud spirits by forcin' dem to do de things dey don't want to do, which de Science of Child Culture teaches you not to do."

"Praise be," says I, "what I see try in' to do is to break dem proud spirits, because I see seed too many of dem proud spirited child'n grow up to be de jail an' ornamental de chain gang. Maybe I don't know nothin' about de deah Scientific Child Culture, but I've got a hunch dat dem boys an' gal what is brought up to mind der Maws an' Paws is de jump when dey says do a thing is gwine to mind a law when dey gits grown."

"But you ought not to say 'must' to a child. Dat's tyrannical. You ought to kind of suggest to a child what you wants 'em to do," says Sis Alvry.

"Dat's de reason dat I holds to de knock down an' drag out plan of raisin' 'em. Hit sort of fits 'em in de cradle for what's gwine to come afterward, an' den dey ain't so surprised when dey finds out de de only way to make a livin' is to wuk for hit, an' dat de law ain't gwine to be changed none to let dem do as dey pleases, an' dat a few older people in de worl' has got de same rights as dey have."

"But the new an' enlightened way to control yo' chillen, Sis Mirandy," goes on Sis Alvry, "is not to use brute force, but to appeal to dere finer feelings."

"De only way to reach a child's finer feelin's is wid de business end of a hickory switch," spones I. "Dat's what I see always rached for my children's finer feelin's wid, an' I ain't never failed to find 'em yit."

"Cose I know what you're a-talkin' about, Sis Alvry an' many's de occasion on which I has noticed Sis Hannah Jane an' Sis Marie argifyin' wid dere offspring, an' gittin' dem to de beauty of de higher life an' tellin' dem how hit grieved dere dear Maws to see dem actin' up de way dey did, an' a pleadin' wid 'em to be nice, sweet, angel chillen. Somehow, dough, dem techin' words didn't seem to hit de right spot, an' dem chillen kept on a howlin', an' a-cryin', an' a-makin' ev'body in earshot miserable."

"Den I comes along, an' I see dat my little Thomas Jefferson Abram Lincoln had been in dat same devilment as dem odder chillen; but did I waste any words on him? Naww, I des turned him across my knee, an' applied de palm of my hand in de spot whar hit would do de most good; an' in two minutes I done regenerated dat child, an' saved him, an' turned him into one of dem well springs of joy in de house. I tell you, Sis Alvry, dere ain't nothin' de matter wid de ole-fashioned hand-made spank except dat dere ain't enought of hit to go around."

"Don't you believe in Scientific Child Culture, Sis Mirandy?" says Sis Alvry.

"Sis Alvry," spones I, "I spects hit's a mighty good thing an' wuks on all right on dem spin-lin' little weak, sore-eyed chillen what's named Percy or Gladys, but hit ain't strong enough for de constitution of biled greens an' pot becker chillen lak mine. Dey ain't no scientific proposition. Dey's dese little animals, an' I see gwine to deal wid 'em on dat plan."

MARRYING TO REFORM.

I have received a very interesting letter from a young woman who, left an orphan in her childhood and depended upon her own exertions for a living, has worked her way up from a cash girl to being a buyer in a big department store. In character this young woman is strong and fine. She is very religious with strict and right ideas about moralities and conventionalities, but she has fallen in love, as so many such women do, with a man who is her direct opposite in every respect.

He is as Bohemian in his tastes as she is Puritanical in hers. He is a shiftless ne'er do well, dissipated, flighty, improvident. He is everything of which the woman disapproves theoretically, but still she loves him and wants to marry him, and asks me this question:

"When the bad woman can lower a man and lead him like a child, can't a good woman also lead him, perhaps, from self-destruction and hatred for all womankind, to happiness and saner living? Oh, have you, or any of your thousands of readers, knowing that women marry to reform men, ever heard of one who succeeded?"

Speaking for myself, I will answer emphatically, NO. I have known hundreds of women to marry men to reform them, and in not one single case that has come under my observation has the woman succeeded.

Doubtless there have been men who have been influenced to give up their vices by their wives, just as there have been occasionally blue roses, or it has rained fishes, but these phenomena are freaks of nature, so rare that no woman has any right to expect to see them.

Women deceive themselves with the belief that the marriage ceremony is a sort of incantation that has only to be said over a man to transform him from a devil into an angel, and change his every taste and habit. Fallacious belief! The man who was a dispendable before marriage will be just as thirsty afterward. The man who was lazy before marriage will hate to work just as much afterward. The man who let his mother support him before marriage will have no shame in taking his wife keep boarders to let care of him after marriage. These things are as much a part of the man as his eyes or his hair, and no woman can change them.

There is no other thing in the world that is so exaggerated as what we call "woman's influence." In reality "woman's influence" over man doesn't amount to a row of pins. The most that any woman can do for a man is to stimulate him. She can help him on, on the course on which he is going, and accelerate his place, but she cannot change his destination.

This is true, whether the man's road leads up or down. If a man is good, and true, his wife can help him reach the heights. If he is indolent and ambitious, she can help him boos himself up the ladder. But if he is a drunkard, not all her efforts will keep him out of the gutter. If he is shiftless and no account, not all her labor will put vim and energy into him.

On the other hand the bad woman is not the siren, with occult powers, as she is popularly painted. She merely stimulates what is worst in a bad or weak man, and her influence seems so great because the downward path is always a greased toboggan slide.

In all sincerity, nothing else has done so much to strew the shores of matrimony with the wrecks of the broken hearts and the blasted lives of women as the theory that a man can be reformed by marriage. Not once in a million times can it be done, and when it can it isn't worth the trouble that it costs.

It is a painful process to try to make over a weakling, and it is not often that a woman's love survives the contempt she comes to feel for the creature in the shape of a man that is not a man, that has neither strength to stand alone, nor self-control to resist, nor intelligence to look ahead, nor energy to strive, who is nothing but a coward and a quitter on the battlefield of life.

Any woman who marries a man to reform him is a self-deluded fool. She is attempting the impossible, and is bound to fail, and make both herself and the man miserable in her fruitless efforts to change what cannot be changed.

To my correspondent, and all other girls who are debating this problem, I have two pieces of advice to give.

First, don't marry a man to reform him. If you want a husband who comes up to your ideal, marry a man who is already a man.

Secondly, don't try to reform the man you marry. If you deliberately pick out a drunkard, a gambler, or a rogue for a husband you take him as he is. Get up and open the door for him when he comes staggering home without a reproach. Don't say a word when he runs after other women. Go to work and support him without a complaint when he doesn't support you. Just enjoy whatever there is of charm and fascination in him, whatever it was in him that you fell in love with, and let the balance go.

That's the only way you will ever get any happiness, for you won't be able to alter your husband's nature, and your husband will come to hate you and fear you if you are always sitting over him in the attitude of a judge who is about to pronounce sentence.

A nagging wife makes her husband forget his other troubles.

Don't Be a Poodle Dog.

When I say "don't spoil your sweet heart," I do not mean that you should not show her all the love and tenderness of which your heart is capable. I merely advise you not to act as though you were trained dog ready to fetch and carry at her slightest whim.

It not only makes you appear a poor-spirited thing, but it makes her selfish and exacting.

It makes people pity you and dislike her.

Incidentally, it makes the girl herself think less of you.

Don't allow your devotion to destroy your dignity and self-respect. You must remember that if you spoil her while you are engaged, you will have to keep it up after you are married.

If you don't there will be tears and reproaches and accusations of worn-out love, etc.

As far as you are concerned, it will probably be a case of ceasing to run after the car after you have caught it. You will be happy and content and still very much in love, but you won't be quite so keen on the fetch and carry business.

The married man cannot be the slave of his wife and amount to anything in the world.

A selfish, exacting wife is a millstone round a man's neck, and a handicap in every sense of the word. The fact that he has made the situation will not lessen the burden. You can show your sweetheart every possible attention without becoming a slave to her whims.

Don't let her order you about as though you had no dignity nor will of your own.

It is a habit that will grow very quickly, and she won't be able to resist the temptation to display her power. And power of that sort is bad for a woman.

The power that she exercises for the happiness of others ennobles her, but the power that drives her to petty exactations and selfishness degrades her.

Respect will be wanting.

She will not really love you unless she respects you, and she will not respect you if she feels that she can order you about like a tame poodle dog.

You must have a will of your own if you hope to hold a woman's love.

Any woman would tell you just what I am telling you, for all women at some time of their lives have known men whom they knew they could dictate to.

I have seen people fairly boil with indignation over the demands made by a spoiled girl on the man who loved her.

And always they have ended by saying, "Oh, well, if he is such a poor spirited thing he deserves all he gets."

When a girl gets into the habit of changing her mind forty times about a thing, ordering a man to do this and do that, to go here and go there, it is high time the man pulled himself together and made protest.

Hold her because she loves and respects you, not because she can order you about.

THE NEW ERA.

The first regular airship passenger service was inaugurated yesterday between Friedrichshafen and Dusseldorf.—News Item.

"Abroad! Cast off!" A new age leaps Man born before our doubting eyes; Her engines speak, her swift blades creak.

Defiance to the sovereign skies.

"Full speed ahead!" The puny world Swings past in arcs of radiant views, With ant-hill towns and lakes and downs.

Laved in sun flood of greens and blues.

Poor Daedalus, that he might see Our speeding car on scheduled way, Or free from care, in easy chair, Clink glasses in our winged cafe!

That puffing thread that once with pride We pointed as the Fast Express; How small it seems before the dreams Of commerce in the Conqueror's dress!

At forty miles, my partner smiles, "It's hearts, passed make, your turn to play!"

Short lived, alas! new wonders pass, Tomorrow fades to yesterday.

"All out!" We settle back to earth, With bag and bundle push our way; "A flight to Mars in high-speed cars. Ah, that would be worth while," we say.

There was a Difference.

Two weeks after he had faced the parson with the only girl he met one of his bachelor friends.

"I say, old friend, remarked the b. f. "you don't look the part of a happy benedict. What's the trouble—have you suffered a disappointment?"

"You have said it," answered the other, sadly. "My wife can't sing."

"Can't sing!" echoed his friend. "Why, in that case I think you are to be congratulated."

"That isn't the trouble," replied the young husband. "She thinks she can sing."

Lady Muor Mackenzie, wife of the senior member of the Governor's Council, is said to be the moving spirit of the Women's Club of Poona, India.

MR. GOSLINGTON'S ADVENTURE

He Offers a Seat to a Lady in an Elevated Car—Unexpected Outcome.

This," said Mr. Goslington, "I confess is rather puzzling to me, but I am inclined to think that I get left in it.

"The elevated car in which I rode home late yesterday afternoon was as usual at that hour crowded, and so as usual I hung on by a strap. But a few stations along the man in front of whom I had been standing got up and went out, leaving a vacant seat, which of course I might have taken but which I did not take, for a step or two further back in the car there was standing, holding on by a strap, a young woman talking with a young man who was standing near her, holding on by the next strap.

"What I did was to indicate to this young woman that here was a seat for her, at which she turned and stepped across the car, as I supposed, to occupy the seat that I had thus left for her. But just what she did was this:

"Sitting down on one side of this seat, she edged along a little further on that side, thus making her next neighbor there, a woman, move along a little, and thus providing half the seat vacant, and now she invited the young man with whom she had been talking to sit down beside her, which he did, all this leaving me to stand there, completely ignored, in front of them.

"Sitting down as she did she discommoded the person, the woman sitting next to her, and crowding in to sit beside her, as he had to do, the young man with her discommoded the person sitting next to him. Thus this lady would appear to have proceeded when her opportunity came with entire disregard of everybody but herself, seeking with utter selfishness solely her own comfort and pleasure, or so we might have thought, if it were possible to think ill of any woman, which I do not; but while the situation was a little puzzling, it certainly did seem as if she had sort of made a jump of me, don't you think?"—New York Sun.

The Aztec Calendar.

The Aztecs of Mexico had a calendar of their own and one copy is engraved in stone and now preserved in the National Museum of Mexico. Fifty-two years constituted a cycle with the Aztecs. Each year had 365 days. There were 18 months of 20 days each and five additional days that were considered very unlucky, and were devoted to human sacrifice. The month was divided into four weeks of five days each. The days were such names as "Rain," "Monkey" and "Small Bird," and each day of the month had a name. Whole phrases were used for the names of some months.

Much Power from Niagara.

Power generated at Niagara Falls is to be distributed all over Canada. Bids have been asked on 10,000 tons of structural steel for the Canadian government. The steel is to be used for towers which will support the cables used in transporting the current. Already power generated at Niagara is being sent to a distance of more than 12 miles, and it is the intention of the Canadian government to increase this distance, says the Scientific American. Towns in every direction about Niagara will be supplied.

Woman's Suspicious Reticence.

Are women beginning to talk less in the hope of thus better pleasing men? If so, while commending the motive, we would unhesitatingly question the method. The mere music of their voices as contrasted with the raucous male note easily counterbalances any possible disparity in the ideas expressed. Upon all grounds we cry out for loosening of the delicate tongues now so strangely and so suspiciously stilled.

Even to China Land.

The equal-rights wave has reached the shores of China, and it is reported that a number of wives in Canton have left their husbands, saying that they will no longer be subject to them. The wives have had the worst of it, however, as the law gives power to imprison them, and they have had to suffer the consequences of their rash resolves.

Work of Zambesi Missions.

A pamphlet recently issued by Andrew Murray gives a brief survey of missions south of the Zambesi. There are 31 different missionary organizations at work, ministering to over 10,000,000 people. The student volunteer movement in South Africa has put 84 young missionaries in the field since 1896.

Ethics of Friendship.

THAT RECORD JUMP BY WASHINGTON.

Alleged Origin of Thackeray's Story of the 22 Foot Leap.

Three college athletes have had an ideal shattered by reading a paragraph in a speech that Sir G. Trevelyan made in London before the Publishers Circle at a recent dinner. These men, in addition to being athletes, are devoted to Thackeray and "The Virginians."

There is a reference in that book to the prowess of George Washington as an athlete, particularly as a broad jumper. This is to the effect that Washington was able to jump 22 feet, which, considering that it was away back in the eighteenth century, was some leap. Although the best American record now is 24 feet 7 1/4 inches, it has not been standing so long, and in the early days of American athletics 22 feet was a remarkable performance in the broad jump.

These three used to pride themselves on knowing about that performance credited to Washington, and they pointed out how in 1876 and for three years following the American championship was won by leaps of less than 20 feet, and that from 1880 to 1885 inclusive the champion did not do 22 feet, although close to it on several occasions.

So they used always to tell folks who asked about great broad jumpers that Washington held the American record from 1752 to 1885. What shattered all this was the following from the Trevelyan speech:

"I was present at a dinner where Thackeray discoursed to a delightful audience of young people about 'The Virginians,' which he was then writing and which seemed to fill his mind to the exclusion of everything else. Among other matters he asked us, all around the table, what was the widest jump any of us had ever known, and when we agreed upon twenty-one feet, he said: 'Then I must make George Washington jump one foot more!'"

A Little Devil in the Heart.

An insane devil lurks in the heart of even the most sainted woman. It is the little devil that makes a young wife ask her devoted husband which of the two he would save if she and her mother were drowning, writes William J. Locke in his story "Simple Septimus," in the American Magazine. It is the same little devil that is responsible for infinite mendacity on the part of men. "Have you said that to another woman?" No, of course he hadn't, and the wretch is instantly perjured. "My immortal soul," says the good fellow, instantaneously converted into an atrocious liar, and the little devil cooes with satisfaction and curls himself up snugly to sleep.

Uses of Irish Peat.

Consul Henry S. Culver, of Cork, writes that the peat beds of Ireland may yet become a valuable asset in the country's industrial development other than for fuel if, as is now claimed upon the authority of an Austrian experimenter, the fibres of the remains of the reeds and grasses of which peat is composed can be utilized not only for paper-making and carpets, but for weaving the finest fabrics as well. The claim is put forth that the fibre is elastic and durable, and being a non-conductor of heat, the cloth manufactured from it is as tough as linen and as warm as woolen.

India-Gestion.

Here is a story the bishop of London told John Morley the other day, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. They were holding an "exam." in an East-end school, and the teacher was explaining the chief products of the Indian empire. One child recited a list of comestibles. "Please, miss, India produces curries and pepper and citron and chillies and chutney and—and—" "Yes, yes, and what comes after that?" "Please, miss, I don't remember." "Yes, but think. What is India so famous for?" "Please, 'm, India-gestion."

Hens Hatch Fish.

Chinamen have a way of tricking hens so that they assist in the hatching of fish. Fish eggs are carefully placed in an egg shell, which is then sealed and put under an unsuspecting hen. In a few days the spawn is warmed into life and the contents of the shell are then cast into a shallow pool, where the sunshine completes the work.

Demand for Artificial Flowers.

Makers of artificial flowers in New York city are receiving an unusual number of orders from all parts of the country for the fall and winter trade. Most of the supply for the nation comes from New York, where more money is spent for the manufacture of imitation flowers than in any other city in the world.

Picking Out a Job.

"Work," observed the reflective deadbeat—"work is all right if you can get the sort to suit your individual needs. I, for instance, wouldn't object to calling out the stations on an Atlantic liner."

Spread Happiness.

Is not the first duty of those who are happy to tell of their gladness to others? All men can learn to be happy; and the teaching of it is easy.

DePAUW UNIVERSITY NOTES

OLD BETA HOUSE WILL BE SCENE OF GREEK REVELRIES

MEN OF EVERY FRATERNITY WILL GATHER TONIGHT FOR AN EVENING OF GOOD FELLOWSHIP.

COACH TAPP WILL MAKE DEBUT

The Entertainment Will Range From Classical Music to an Imitation of Jeffries-Johnson Prize Fight.

You can not afford to miss it. That's what the committee have to say in reference to the Pan-Hellenic which will be held in the old Beta house tonight. Every plan and every detail has been especially arranged with the idea of every attendant having the best time ever. Good fellowship will run high when all the fraternity men in school will assemble together in one body and for one purpose—namely to have a good time.

The Betas, after due consideration decided that no more fitting and proper farewell could be tendered their old home than by turning it over for such an occasion as the Pan-Hellenic smoker.

Have Varied Program.

From the program announced in yesterday's issue, lovers of entertainment will see they will have one of the keenest times of their college career. Everything from a grand opera for the lovers of the classical to a prize fight for the pleasure of those who wish to see the boys bat each other with the gloves is scheduled for the evening.

Eating has also been considered carefully and it is said many new, novel and nifty concoctions in the line of eating have been prepared. Coach Tapp will make his official debut before the students as an entertainer. The coach has an excellent reputation in his home town as a stump speaker and the committee does not see how he can fail here.

Expect Large Attendance.

So, they will all be there. If you are looking for your friend and fail to find him, just drop around and you will need to seek no further.

STUDENTS ARE SCALDED

THREE PEOPLE WERE INJURED IN CHEMISTRY LABORATORIES YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

ACCIDENT MARRED DAY'S WORK

Yesterday was a fatal day in the chemistry laboratories and several students in that science suffered in injuries. Miss Josephine Allen received perhaps the most serious injury from boiling hydrochloric acid which was thrown over her face and arms by a bursting test tube. She was boiling the acid when the accident occurred and her right arm was severely scalded.

About half a hour later in the same room Robert Morrison was heating some sulphuric acid in a test tube when it sputtered up and flew into his eyes. The injury while not serious was extremely painful. In the laboratories for advanced work John Emison was handling some bromine when the fumes got in his eyes. Although not dangerously injured the extreme pain compelled him to leave the laboratory for the day.

Forced to Leave Home.

Every year a large number of poor sufferers whose lungs are sore and racked with coughs are urged to go to another climate. But this is costly and not always sure. There's a better way. Let Dr. King's New Discovery cure you at home. "It cured me of lung trouble," writes W. R. Nelson, of Calamine, Ark., "when all else failed and I gained 47 pounds in weight. It's surely the King of all cough and lung cures." Thousands owe their lives and health to it. It's positively guaranteed for coughs, colds, lagrippe, asthma, croup—all throat and lung troubles. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free at the Owl Drug Store.

TEAM SORRY FOR WABASH

COACH TAPP'S WARRIORS DEPICTED DEATH OF LITTLE GIANT LEADER

HAVE SUFFERED NO INJURIES

The football heroes went through a light practice yesterday afternoon. Not a man was disabled in the Miami game and everything looks to a profitable week whether a game is played Saturday or not. Coach Tapp and the team regret very much that Wabash was so unfortunate in the game against St. Louis University.

Manager Manning has wired to the Central University of Kentucky team and is expecting an answer sometime today. If he is unsuccessful in getting a game there, he will make an effort to secure some other team of good caliber.

NEW SCHEDULE COMPLETED

DATES CHANGED AND QUESTIONS REVISED IN INTER-FRATERNITY LEAGUE.

DEBATERS WILL TALK ALL YEAR

Complete revision was made in the fraternity debate league schedule pronounced ineffective at the general debate meeting last Friday. Yesterday the schedule committee changed not only the dates of the original arrangement, but also several questions in the groups and finale.

The corrected list of questions follows:
Group 1.—The government should adopt the Initiative and Referendum for all public officials.
Group 2.—The government should subsidize its Merchant Marines.
Group 3.—We should have a Federal Divorce Law.
Group 4.—We should have a Tariff for Revenue only.
The dates as revised stand:
Nov. 13.—Delta Tau (neg.) vs. Delta U. (aff.)
Nov. 18.—Beta (neg.) vs. Philo (aff.)
Dec. 2.—Beta (aff.) vs. Phi Psi (neg.)
Dec. 9.—Phi Psi (aff.) vs. Philo (neg.)
Dec. 16.—Sigma Chi (neg.) vs. Sigma Nu (aff.)
Jan. 13.—Sigma Chi (aff.) vs. Phi Gam (neg.)
Jan. 20.—Phi Gam (aff.) vs. Sigma Nu (neg.)
Jan. 27.—Phi Delt (neg.) vs. Deke (aff.)
Feb. 17.—Phi Delt (aff.) vs. Plato (neg.)
Feb. 24.—Deke (neg.) vs. Plato (aff.)

Winners of the groups 1 and 2 will debate on the question: The government should own and control the railway systems of the United States—March 17th.
Winners of the groups 3 and 4 will debate: We should substitute intra-school for intercollegiate athletics—on March 24th.
The final debate on the varsity question will occur during commencement week.

STUDENTS SEND MESSAGE OF SYMPATHY TO WABASH

In Chapel Yesterday Morning DePauw Men and Women Attest Their Sorrow for Their Rival's Loss.

At the beginning of the chapel service yesterday President McConnell said, concerning the death of Ralph Wilson, the Wabash half back, who was mortally injured in the Wabash-St. Louis game Saturday, that he believed his death was purely accidental and that the DePauw student body should send a message of sympathy to the student body at Wabash. When this suggestion was put to the students it was unanimously voted that the student council send a message of sympathy through their president to the student body at Wabash.

Strong Healthy Women

If a woman is strong and healthy in a womanly way, motherhood means to her but little suffering. The trouble lies in the fact that the many women suffer from weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism and are unfitted for motherhood. This can be remedied.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Cures the weaknesses and disorders of women. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in motherhood, making them healthy, strong, vigorous, virile and elastic.

"Favorite Prescription" banishes the indispositions of the period of expectancy and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It quickens and vitalizes the feminine organs, and insures a healthy and robust baby. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous merits.

It Makes Weak Women Strong. It Makes Sick Women Well. Honest druggists do not offer substitutes, and urge them upon you as "just as good." Accept no secret nostrum in place of this non-secret remedy. It contains not a drop of alcohol and not a grain of habit-forming or injurious drugs. Is a pure, powerful extract of healing, native American roots.

PREPS ARE CHAMPIONS

THEIR DECISIVE DEFEAT OF WILEY LEAVES WORTHINGTON ONLY RIVAL FOR SECONDARY PEN-NANT.

On last Saturday the Academy football team started to make good their claim on secondary school championship by routing the strong Wiley High School team. The score was 16 to 0.

The Prep team was a tower in defense and only twice did Wiley make first down by her well-developed forward passes, for the line was unpenetrable. On the offense Hewitt and Thomas played a star game. The team played a steady aggressive game and had it not been for several mishaps their tally would have been bigger, showing better the relative merits of the teams.

Coach Bishop stated that he was very well satisfied with the playing, but he is putting them thru a hard work out polishing up the plays in preparation for the game Saturday at Worthington. Worthington High School has the strongest team on the schedule and in winning this game, they clinch their hold on the championship in this state.

It's the World's Best.

No one has ever made a salve, ointment or balm to compare with Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's the one perfect healer of cuts, burns, corns, bruises, sores, scalds, boils, ulcers, eczema, salt rheum. For sore eyes, cold sores, chapped hands, or sprains, it's supreme. Infallible for piles. Only 25c at the Owl Drug Store.

Something for You to Think About From Chicago Banker

The late Chief Justice Fuller and the late Hon. Lambert Tree of Chicago, who both achieved distinction thruout the United States as lawyers, judges and diplomats, chose the Merchants Loan and Trust Co. of that city Executor of their wills and Administrator of their estates. When men so schooled in legal requirements and legal responsibility turn to the modern Trust Company and use its methods of settling estates as a safeguard and for the proper handling of their affairs after death, the system is given the strongest possible endorsement. One of the main advantages of the modern Trust Company lies in the fact that it remains continually in business and lives on when individual administrators and executors are dead, thus making it invaluable to persons in search of administrators of their estates or for the handling of any affairs of this nature.

Twenty guests from this city were invited and responded to the invitations issued by Mrs. Robin Stunkard of North Forest avenue, to be present at the meeting of the Theta Alumnae club meeting, which was held at her home on Saturday evening.

The club is a literary organization of Greencastle and Mrs. Stunkard is one of its members. Saturday was also the twelfth wedding anniversary of the hostess' wedded life and she was not aware that her club members knew of the particular event until she was reminded with being presented with a beautiful fern the gift of the ladies.

The usual meeting was participated in during the afternoon, the members earnestly discussing the modern club woman and what she accomplishes. A two-course buffet luncheon was served to the guests, which numbered about forty, and the remainder of the time until the hour of departure of the club, which was at 6 o'clock, was spent in a social manner.

The meeting was of exceptional pleasure, owing to the fact the ladies assisted in celebrating her wedding anniversary.—Brazil News

What might have been a serious wreck occurred on the interurban line Monday morning. Through the failure of the conductor James Moss to give the motorman, Allen Moore, his orders, Moore ran his car through to Fillmore when he should have run on the siding at Bunton, just this side of Fillmore.

Luckily the east-bound car reached Fillmore, just east of Bunton, before the west-bound car, and so the accident was averted. Had the west-bound car passed Fillmore before the east-bound car reached there a bad accident probably would have occurred.

MANY TAILORS DECEIVED.

More Than 1,000 Exclusive Samples Get Into the Wrong Hands.

A piece of cardboard covered with square samples of woollen cloths for men's and women's suitings might not seem to the average man a very valuable article, yet elaborate schemes to get hold of such sample cards are planned and sometimes carried through.

A couple arrived recently at the best of the Philadelphia hotels and set out to visit all the leading tailors. The man wanted a winter outfit of a comprehensive character, while the woman was just as interested in accumulating a winter wardrobe of the tailor made variety. Occupying large rooms in the hotel, there was no reason to believe that the two were anything other than they represented themselves. So when they gave the number of their suite in the hotel the samples were forthcoming.

After several days had passed without the expected orders the tailors began to send to the hotel for information. The answer returned was that the two had given up their rooms and left the day before. No samples were to be found.

The number of inquirers became so large that they were referred by the hotel clerk to police headquarters. More than 1,000 samples of cloth had been sent by the tailors to the couple. Investigation showed their purpose when in the Broad street station were found two wooden packages they had checked there, filled with sample cards from which the cloth had been torn away.

The couple had succeeded in acquiring possession of the best samples of the firms that deal in the high class exclusive patterns. Of course they will sell their patterns to the cheaper firms that endeavor to reproduce them.

Even a bolder effort to get the exclusive samples is reported from Chicago. There two men rented a store in which to open a tailoring business of a high priced character and sent to the manufacturers for their samples. The samples were sent, but no orders ever came.

Later inquiry from the manufacturers showed that the firm had got no further in its career than taking the store for a month. Its object was plain when some of the best designs were turned out by the cheap mills.

Origin of the "Black Hand."

There was a historical foundation for the name "black hand," according to Everybody's. Back in Inquisition days in Spain there was La Mano Nera, a secret society which fought the government and the church. It passed, and the secret societies of southern Italy were its heirs. Twenty years or more ago a false report was raised in Spain that La Mano Nera had been revived. The story lingered in the brain of a Herald reporter, and one fine day he attempted to rejuvenate waning interest in a puzzling Italian murder case by speculating as to the coming to life of the "black hand" among Latin immigrants in America. The other newspapers seized on the idea eagerly and kept it going.

The Square Deal.

A stout and opulent man dwelling in a suburban town had borne the expense of the annual Sunday school picnic, and the superintendent of the school, out of gratitude, asked the benefactor to address the children. The philanthropist was not much of a speaker, but he was a master hand at poker. When he found himself gazing into the expectant faces of a hundred and fifty children his embarrassment almost overcame him, but he managed to stammer out: "My dear children, what I want to impress upon you is that—er—er—it pays to be good. That er—er—er—a man who deals from the bottom of the pack is generally buried at the public expense."

Old-Time Speed Maniacs.

A century and a half ago the wayfarer on England's great highways was little better off in the matter of security from accident than he is in these days of speed-loving motorists. A French traveler in 1765, recording his journeys from Dover to London, explained the existence of the wayside footpath marked off by posts as being due to "the extreme speed at which the English vehicles drive in the country (contrary to their practice in the towns), never stopping to avoid running over and maiming foot passengers."

Another Misunderstanding.

A South side man went home and told his wife that the doctors had discovered the craving for whisky was caused by auto-intoxication. "That's right," exclaimed the woman, who was trying to induce her husband to buy a machine. "Blame it on the auto!"

Burglar Proof Lock.

Make a staple four inches long out of wire, common fence wire will do. Place this staple astride the doorknob, on inside, run one prong of staple through eyelet in door key after locking door, and no burglar can open our door from the outside.

Incurable.

From Alabama comes the story of a hand-shaking ghost. Even death, it seems, cannot break some men of the habit of running for office.

The glare of a fire in the northeast about 11:30 o'clock Tuesday night caused Officer Stone to turn in a fire alarm. Officer Stone believed it was Barnaby's mill, but the fire was some distance northeast of town. Although no fires have been reported by any of the farmers who were in town today from that vicinity, it is rumored that it was on or near the Conrad Cook farm, which is about 2 miles northeast of town. In answering the alarm, which was turned in from Box No. 21, on the corner of College Avenue and Liberty streets, the fire wagon made the run to that box, but were met there by Officer Stone. The glare could plainly be seen, but its exact location could not be determined. The fire company returned to the fire department building, the fire being too far away to make the run.
